Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. Lotions instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

EATING A BOAT'S CREW.

Shocking Case of Massacre and Cannibalism.

Liverpool Post.

The Post has a report of a horrible massacre at the Fiji island. The victims were the crew of a boat from the labor vessel Isabel. It appears that the Isabel was on a cruise in search of laborers, and one of the islands touched at was Saton Island. The Isabel lay off the land, and a boat was sent off to the shore to open negotiations for recruiting workmen. While the negotiations were in progress the treacherous islanders made a sudden attack on the boat's crew. The men were assailed in so sudden a manner that they were unable to offer very much resistance. Out of the whole crew but two got away, and these had narrow escapes, while one had two wounds in his head inflicted by tomahawks. It was evident the attack had been arranged previous to the landing of the unfortunate men, as the natives joined in the affray simultaneously. They were also well armed with old muskets and tomahawks. At the moment, Capt. Hawkins, of the Isabel, could not do anything, but some time afterward a search party was sent from the schooner, and pushed their way to the village of the bush. The sight which here met their eyes was shocking to behold. The village was deserted, the natives leaving behind them a hand, a thigh, portions of a chest, a heart, and liver, without doubt the remains of the former comrades of the search party. The natives had evidently been surprised while preparing to make their last meal on the unfortunate men of the Isabel, as all the remains found had been cleaned and scraped, and ready for cooking. All the human remains found were collected and burned. There was not the slightest doubt in the minds of the searchers that the remainder of the bodies had been eaten by the Santo Island natives, who are known to be cannibals. Capt. Hawkins received the full particulars of the attack from the two who escaped, and who positively affirmed that not the slightest provocation was given to the islanders to commit the outrage. As soon as possible after the sad affair, Captain Hawkins, proceeded to Fiji to report the matter to the authorities there.

Gold Crazy Negroes.

Eufaula Bulletin.

The crazy old negro, Thompson, who left such a fearful hole in the ground on the banks of the Chewalla, Alabama, has been considerably re-enforced in his field of operations on the Rev. Sam Fantrony's place, five or six miles out. He now has five fresh recruits, among them a colored carpenter named Arnold Fannin, and a colored shoemaker. They have been digging vigorously for two weeks for a basket of gold which old Thompson roundly asserts is at the bottom of the hole in which they are digging. They are now thirty feet below the surface, and are cutting through a strata of the hardest kind of red sand rock, Thompson says they would have found the treasure above this rock strata but for an unfortunate occurrence the other day. Fannin was almost in sight of the basket of gold and was digging vigorously, when he made a miss-lick and hurt his foot, and he sat down and went to "kussin," and the treasure immediately sank ten feet deeper and straight through a bed of rock as hard as flint.

Eating Out of Doors in Winter.

Madison Herald.

A peculiar story comes to us of a family who have resided in Jennings county, Ind., for many years, and during all this time have eaten their meals on an open porch facing the east. No weather has been cold enough to drive them from this open porch to take their meals. A gentleman said he dined with the family when it was cold enough to freeze the victuals on the table as indifferently as if they had been in a comfortable room.

Bernhardt in Her Coffin.

London World.

A queer law suit is in store for the Parisians. Some two years ago Sarah Bernhardt, "garrande artiste" and universal genius took it in her head to be photographed reclining at full length in the famous ebony coffin, padded with white satin, about which we have heard so much. The photographer, Melandri, undertook to satisfy the lady's caprice and obtain some excellent proofs, Sarah having simulated to perfection the stillness of death. Thereupon Dona Sol said to Melandri, "I will make a bargain with you. Swear to me that you will not sell any of these photographs until after my death." "After your death?" "Oh, it will happen sooner than you expect. I promise you to die within a year from now. I am not joking, I have a presentiment, and my presentiments never deceive me. Furthermore, at the end of the year, if I am still in this world, I authorize you to sell as many of the photographs as you please." Melandri consented to this strange contract and executed faithfully his part of the bargain, but Sarah, happily for her admirers, neglected to keep her promise. Melandri wrote to Sarah while she was at New York, reminding her that she had no longer a right to behold the light of the sun. "Patience," telegraphed Sarah; "at end of American engagement will fulfill engagement with you." Melandri waited, but when Sarah returned from Russia a few days ago he again reminded Dona Sol that she had no right to behold the light of the sun. "Patience," wrote Sarah once more; "I have promised to create three new pieces at Paris; after that you can sell the photographs." But Melandri's stock of patience is exhausted, and he has consequently referred his case to the Tribunal of Commerce of Paris.

The excellent and in every way first-class performance being given at Heucke's this week by the Hyde & Behman Muldoon Pic-Nic Combination deserves more than a passing notice. The company is composed of the pick of the novelty stage, and no one, not excepting Tony Pastor, has ever brought to this city a troupe that gave a better entertainment. In addition to the brilliant olio they present at each performance the immensely funny comedy of Muldoon's Pic-Nic, of which one never seems to tire, and which will not need to be shelved for many a season. The engagement of this company will count one of the largest of the season.

Cure for Hog Cholera.

Thousands of dollars are annually lost by Kentucky farmers by this disease getting into their swine herds. Many remedies have been suggested and adopted, but thus far the disease has baffled the efforts of the most skillful. For the benefit of hog raisers we give the following from the Lewiston (Ill.) Gazette:

The best way is to make a pile of corn on the cobs, effectually search it, and then give affected hogs free access to it. This remedy was discovered by E. E. Lock at the time his distillery was burned in this county, together with a large lot of store corn, which was so much injured as to be unfit for use, and greedily eaten by the hogs, several of which were daily dying of cholera. After the second day not a single hog was lost, and the disease entirely disappeared. The remedy has been tried in a number of cases, and has never failed.

Our farmers should give this simple remedy a trial as it may result in the saving of many thousands of dollars.

STEAMBOAT DISASTER.

The Sydney Bursts a Steam Pipe Killing Four Persons, and Injuring Thirteen Others, Many of Whom Will Die.

A gentleman who arrived last night from Parkersburg, W. Va., furnishes us the facts of the disaster to that boat near Goose Island, on Friday morning about four o'clock. The boat is a large stern-wheel passenger and freight steamer plying between Wheeling and Cincinnati, and at the time the disaster occurred was on her way up the river. At the hour named the main steam-pipe exploded discharging all the steam from the boiler which quickly filled all parts of the boat. Two persons, Mr. Steele, of Parkersburg, and his aged grandmother, Mrs. Little, who occupied a state-room together in the ladies' cabin were killed instantly. Thomas Kane, of West Virginia, was so seriously injured that he died a short time after the explosion. Mrs. Stephenson, the wife of the pilot, who was making a trip with him was terribly scalded. She was removed with others to the steamer Emma Graham, which passed down shortly after the disaster, and died on that boat last night about nine o'clock near Ashland. There were thirteen other persons badly scalded and otherwise injured, many of whom will die. A little girl occupying a state-room in the ladies' cabin awoke to find the room filled with steam and in her fright covered herself with the bed clothing and thus escaped all injury, while others near by were either killed or badly scalded. Two colored chambermaids, one from Cincinnati and the other from Louisville, who were removed to the Emma Graham were so severely hurt that they were expected to die at any moment. The boat itself was but slightly damaged. The accident is described as one of the most terrible that has occurred on the river for many years and the scenes attending it as pitiful and heart rending.

BY TELEGRAPH.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 11, 1882. —The report of the explosion of the steamer Sydney caused the most intense excitement and uneasiness in this city, where the friends and relatives of a number of the employees of the boat reside. The first news received was much exaggerated, and made the disaster more terrible than it really was. The facts as they are known here are as follows: Yesterday morning about four o'clock the Sydney and Wyoming were coming up the river the latter boat being ahead, and when near Goose Island the steam pipe of the Sydney exploded with terrific force, instantly filling the vessel with steam. Two of the state-rooms being torn away by the explosion the steam had free entrance into the ladies' cabin, and scalded many of the passengers while they were asleep in their beds. The boat landed as soon as possible after the explosion and attention given to the injured passengers.

The following is a list of the dead and wounded as far as can be ascertained:

KILLED.

Mr. Steele, Parkersburg, W. Va.
Mrs. Little, " "
Mrs. Stephenson, wife of the pilot, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mr. Warwick, Ohioville, Pa.
Two colored chambermaids, names unknown.

The Emma Graham brought from Ravenswood, W. Va., a number of nurses and physicians for the relief of the wounded, who did all that was possible to alleviate the suffering. The injury to the boat was only slight.

FORTUNE TELLING.

THE family on the boat in Limestone creek are thankful to the people of Maysville for their kind treatment during the three months they have been here. They have laid aside prejudice regarding "fortune telling," as they call it. They have had visitors of every class and all ages, and are perfectly satisfied that the lady on Limestone is fully prepared and can give a true and perfect statement of your life, past, present and future; and if there are some yet who have not been told either in or about the city, bring your exact age at once as you may not have the opportunity again. It is no humbug. It has been reported the boat will remain here during the spring, but the captain says his business calls him to move on by the last of March. He wants a partner for the Extension Spring Bed Bottom. For particulars call at the boat. He wants a competent man with $100; no other need apply. A nice flatboat for sale. Apply as above directed. m94d

UNTIED THE DOG.

The swain sat on the front door-step,
The hour of twelve had fled,
The dog was chained up in the barn,
Her father was in bed.

The heiress, in his mind, he'd won,
So to himself he said:
'Oh, acres and bonds that I'll call mine,
When her dear pa is dead!'

The scene was changed on that front step,
Seductive visions fled;
The dog was tearing from the barn,
Her pa was out of bed.

The old man shouted, "Sick him, Bull!"
The swain whizzed toward the gate;
So did a club the old man threw—
It struck him on the pate.

He fell headlong upon the walk,
He felt the canine take
A piece from off his hinder part—
A large mouthful of steak.

He dreamed of golden pounds no more,
But pound upon the head;
And when that swain would fain sit down,
He wished her pa was dead.

Six Hundred Victims of Whisky.

The Corwin during her voyage to Alaska landed on St. Lawrence island, having orders to investigate the wholesale starvation of the natives. At the first village at which they landed all were dead; so also at the second, where fifty-four dead bodies were counted, nearly all full-grown males. At another place 150 persons—men, women and children—were dead. At the next settlement, twelve dead bodies, and at the following thirty were found. All the inhabitants on the north side of the island, where whisky traders sold liquor, are dead—not one escaping. The general starvation occurred two years ago last winter. Since then the presence of the Corwin in the Arctic has broken up this inhuman whisky trading. The empty whisky kegs are seen strewn all about. The total number of dead bodies found on St. Lawrence island was over 600. The survivors say that white traders from Honolulu sold whisky, which the natives bought and got drunk, remaining so during the season for laying in their winter supply of walrus and seal.—San Francisco Alta.

What Influences Digestion.

There are certain substances upon which the gastric juice exerts no action, and it should be remembered that whatever goes through the stomach untouched passes undissolved through the whole of the alimentary canal. The frequency with which such substances as dried currants and apple pips are passed unaltered is familiar enough to all. Indigestible substances are occasionally retained in the stomach, causing pain, indigestion and irritation for days and days together. There are avoid, what to wear, where and how to live, by what means to avoid infection, to keep off disease, and to escape death for a few weary and worried years are questions which engross the thoughts, if they do not embitter the lives, of the multitude, that the proposition, "Is a sanitary life worth living?" has come to be a subject of serious contemplation, and one which the taxed and harassed community will sooner or later be compelled to entertain.—Dr. J. M. Granville, in the Spectator.

Vinegar Flowing from an Oak Tree.

While Rev. Daniel McHorton, colored, was cutting down a large red oak tree near Butler's Creek he observed a clear liquid running from the cut. Upon tasting this he found that it was strong vinegar. Procuring a vessel he caught the liquid as it ran out and obtained about three gallons and a half. The liquor has the taste and odor of good, strong cider vinegar. There was a small crack in the centre of the tree, and it is supposed that the sap collected in this, fermented and turned to vinegar.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

The Yearning for the Unattainable.

Bar a man out of a hog-pen and he will want to take his meals there. Get up a purely professional club and lots of non-professionals will be mad as washed rats because they can't join. "The red-headed man's club" is very offensive to certain black-haired men because they can't join, and we presume it is an anxiety to join the "jim-jams" club which accepts only those who have had 'em that is causing so many of our gilded youth to qualify themselves therefor.—

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.
For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.
The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete 65 Cents.
Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Fillers complete, 55 Cents.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.
The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out nailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
